Multiplication Boot Camp

The majority of this week will be focused on learning and reinforcing multiplication facts. As we move forward in Math, it is imperative that your child have a fluent knowledge of their multiplication facts. I have attached a link to my website where students can practice their drills at home. It provides them with practice on all the facts, or they can focus on one particular set of facts. You can find this link by going to my website and clicking on the Math tab. There is a button that is attached to the link for the site.

Happy practicing!!!
